

CWS Capital Partners

2006 Annual Report

Providing a wealth of knowledge and the currency of information about circulating wealth to real estate investors.

About CWS Capital Partners

We helped real estate investment management company, CWS Capital Partners, to communicate the importance of circulating investments in various real estate properties to maintain monetary health. We designed “Circulating Value” with artwork inspired from currency etchings to assist in the explanation of recirculating vested interests. The intricate textures of the illustrations added to the visual richness of the book and paired compellingly with the financial information. The design of the annual report helped to invigorate their brand while effectively explain growth strategies to their investors.
