

Edwards Lifesciences

2008 Philanthropy Report

Commemorating philanthropic efforts and appreciation for partnerships to benefit heart disease patients.

About Edwards Lifesciences

The global leader in the science of heart valve technologies, Edward Lifesciences, found success in their philanthropic efforts towards healing patients by involving employees and increasing awareness for the heart disease cause. The philanthropy report was designed with playful illustrations to communicate the human touch that the company gives and receives through the Edwards Lifesciences Fund. The report also communicated their growing efforts in partnerships and successes with the American Heart Association, Larry King Cardiac Foundation, Red Cross and more.
